

We Americans are a talkative lot — but there's an article in the current issue of Collier's magazine (April 30) about England that will leave you speechless.

It's "John Bull in Search of a Future," by Lester K. Born, the amazing story of postwar Britain. The word "amazing" has a three-fold application:

1. Because England resolves to refuse to admit her eclipse as a great power.

2. Because Englishmen are making incredible personal sacrifices in behalf of their country, and

3. Because — especially because — the people did not have these personal hardships thrust upon them by a dictator; they learned what the word was; decided that their leaders were telling the truth and then voluntarily elected, and re-elected, the Labor administration whose Chancellor of the Exchequer is the very tough and very able Sir Stafford Cripps.

The English, Author Velie reports, call Sir Stafford "Mr. Persy" or "The Minister of Perspiration."

And they're not kidding. The chancellor told the people that their country came out of the war with half her merchant fleet sunk, her income from foreign investments gone, her factories run down — and no longer able to export enough goods to support a Western standard of living for Englishmen. Britain has only one-third of the land area of the United States, yet has to support a population one-third as large.

This, said the chancellor, is what postwar Britain would have to do:

"First, we must produce more goods to sell abroad. Then we must build new factories. The needs, comforts and amenities of the family must be last."

Do you know what that means? I don't think you do — any more than I did, until Author Velie told the story of one English clerk's family.

When Robert Acutt's wife goes shopping with ration book in hand, for a week's provisions for her family of four, she brings back 12 ounces of butter, four ounces of cooking fat, 10 ounces of margarine, two slices of bacon, three ounces of cheese, three eggs for her two children (but none for the rest of the family), two pounds of sugar and three shillings (60 cents) worth of meat. This is supplemented by fish, an occasional rabbit, vegetable and potatoes, and makes for the Acutt just about two American-sized meals apiece for the week.

To fight a war and come back to this, well, in a patriot's opinion, I don't believe our own people would have stood it. The test of the English is they not only did it but voted to do it in a free democratic election.

Author Velie reports in an interview with Chancellor Cripps that for these terrible sacrifices the British people are indeed seeing their country come back to greatness. Britain is diverting 8 billion dollars a year — one-fifth of her entire income — to build new factories and electric power stations. She has built 700 factories, industrial production is up 20 per cent — and her yearly trade deficit has been cut in half.

In a word, that is the story of a country whose people think enough of it to volunteer to get by on two meals a week. Guts, as I said in the headline over this article, is an English word — and a word for the English.

Police Probe Attempt to Kill Kentucky Mayor

Evarts, Ky., April 25 — State police today were investigating an apparent attempt to kill Mayor E. H. Bailey.

Officers said a bundle of 2 sticks of dynamite wrapped in black friction tape was found under the mayor's bedroom window about 9:30 o'clock this morning. The fuse had burned almost to the cap before it was extinguished, they added.

Police said they had been unable to learn who extinguished the fuse when the dynamite was placed there. The mayor could not be reached immediately for comment.

Mayor Bailey took office in January, 1948, under a pledge to clean liquor and gambling interests from this Harrison county mining community of 2,100 population. Harrison county is legally dry.

10 Persons Die When Train Rams Truck

Carthage, Tenn., April 25 — (AP) — A fast freight train rammed a truck today, killing 10 persons and wounding 25 others.

The crash occurred near the town of Carthage, Tenn., where the train was traveling at 40 miles an hour.

Some of the dead were scattered along the tracks, while the rest were pinned in the cab of the truck.

All were returning from church services to their homes at Hogan's creek when the accident occurred at the godsonville-Lancaster road, crossing about eight miles south of here.

Instantly killed were: Mrs. Bennett, 50, driver of his wife, Mattie Bell Bennett, 45, and her sons, Douglas, 12, U. L., 10, and Melvin Earl, eight.

Mrs. Pauline Bennett Dickens, 27, daughter of the Bennett's, her husband, Paulie Dickens, 27, and their one-year-old daughter, Catherine.

W. E. (Connie) Bennett, 49, Jess Bennett's brother.

Miss Linnie Gibbs, 17, died shortly after arriving at a hospital at nearby Lebanon.

An immediate investigation of the accident was being conducted by T. W. Waddell, general manager of the railroad.

State Safety Commissioner Sam Neal, who hurried to the scene, said the train ripped the ton and a half farm truck in two. He said he saw five persons were seated in the cab and six on chairs set up in the back.

Accidents Fatal to 6 in Arkansas

By United Press

At least six persons died violently from five different types of accidents in Arkansas over the weekend.

Two were drowned, one was burned fatally, another died of suffocation, one of injuries received in an automobile accident earlier in the week, and another was killed by a train.

The drowning victims were Claude T. Owen, 50, of Austin in White county, and Everett Green, 38, of Poughkeepsie. Officers said Owen died when the boat in which he and two other men were riding overturned in a bayou near Des Arc.

Green apparently fell off the concrete spillway at U. S. Lock and Dam No. 1 at Batesville.

A 36-year-old Little Rock man, Andrew Purnell, died when he was splattered with scalding milk from a milk evaporating machine in the dairy plant where he was employed.

A Marianna World War I veteran, 50-year-old Andrew Mixon, was believed to have suffocated in the smoke-filled bedroom of his home. Officers said Mixon, a semi-invalid, apparently had been smoking in bed when some of the furnishings in the room caught fire. The rest of the house was not damaged.

An 18-year-old Little Rock boy, Franklin E. Dukes, Jr., died in a hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Tuesday. His car overturned and dropped down an embankment near Fort Roots in North Little Rock.

Charles Beard, a 28-year-old Negro, was killed when he was struck by a Missouri Pacific train near the outskirts of Little Rock Sunday.

High British Official Gives Up Citizenship

Moscow, April 25 — (UP) — Archibald R. Johnston, 52, high-ranking British diplomatic official, has renounced his citizenship and intends to remain in the Soviet Union to work for peace, the Communist newspaper Pravda said today.

The newspaper published an open letter from Johnston, chief editor of the British embassy's Russian-language newspaper here, attacking the Atlantic Pact, British foreign policy and "British and American war mongers."

Johnston is the highest Anglo-American official to break with his embassy since the end of the war.

His letter was prominently displayed in Pravda in four full columns under a headline in heavy type. Radio Moscow broadcast it.

The 2,800-word letter said the Atlantic pact "gave me the final impetus to make my decision." It added that the pact was a "military bloc of imperialist states, headed by the United States and England and directed primarily against the Soviet Union, the only one of the great powers fighting for peace."

Johnston's letter caught the British embassy by surprise. There was no immediate comment from British ambassador Sir Maurice Peterson or other members of the British diplomatic staff.

(Friends of Johnston in London who worked with him for many years on the liberal newspaper News Chronicle expressed surprise. They said they knew him as a peace-loving man.)

Youth Recovering From Slashed Throat

Gastonia, N. C., April 25 — (UP) — Police said today that an 18-year-old high school youth who suffered a slashed throat while defending his girl friend from an attacking Negro appeared to be recovering.

Billy Wilson drove four miles for help Saturday night with blood gushing from the wound in his throat after fighting off the Negro who tried to attack Patricia Ann Farmer as they were sitting in Billy's car on a lonely road.

The girl, who suffered stab wounds in the struggle, was recovering too, police said.

Meanwhile, Charlie Harper, 25-year-old paroled Negro convict, was held without charge after deputies with bloodhounds traced a trail from the attack scene to his house.

Congress Gets Truman's U. S. Health Program

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, April 25 (AP) — Legislation to carry out President Truman's far-reaching health program was introduced in congress today.

The bill calls for payroll-tax insurance to provide medical, hospital and dental care for about 120,000,000 Americans at a sponsor-estimated cost of about $60,000,000 a year.

The administration measure also would put into effect all the other phases of Mr. Truman's program.

Those include federal grants for medical construction, public health services and research. The bill also authorizes an experimental program of federal aid to farmers' health co-operatives.

Not a single Republican's name was on the sponsors list accompanying the bill. Some Republicans have branded the president's national health insurance program "socialized medicine."

But the sponsors, in their joint statement, retorted that substitute "voluntary" plans backed by Senator Taft "are a dead end."

"In fact, it is the only way we know of to avoid socialized medicine," they added.

The sponsors of the administration bill made no estimate of the overall cost of the Truman program.

The sponsors did estimate the annual cost of the health insurance plan at about $60,000,000 a year, most of which would come from a three per cent tax on payrolls split between workers and employers.

Federal aid for construction of hospitals would be doubled under the bill, going from the present $75,000,000 to $150,000,000.

A program for training practical nurses would cost $15,000,000 annually, while $10,000,000 the first year and $15,000,000 each of the next four would be available to farmers.

A new child life research program would cost $10,000,000 the first year and "the sums necessary thereafter to carry out the program." Grants and loans totaling $25,000,000 the first year would be authorized to encourage doctors and nurses to settle in rural and other shortage areas.

To push medical education, existing medical schools would get $300,000 each, and new ones would get $500,000 each, plus $1,700 for each student above the average.

Dental schools would get $250 and $1,300 on that same basis, while nursing, public health and sanitary engineering schools would get grants in varying amounts.

Congressional hearings on the bill are expected to start soon and will last several weeks. There probably will be no final action on the legislation until next year.

Under the bill, the national health insurance program would not go into effect until July 1, 1951.

GOP Calls Strategy Session as Congress Gets Ready for Labor Law Debate

Washington, April 25 (AP) — House Republican leaders called a final strategy session behind locked doors today to get ready for the kickoff of congress' labor law debate.

The debate is scheduled to start tomorrow, and it may last the rest of the week. The house has scheduled no other major bills.

Backers of the administration bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley act were also mobilizing their forces, but the Republican mapped out the busier schedule. Plans developed at the GOP leadership meeting were to be outlined to a later gathering of all House Republicans.

Many prominent Republicans predicted the party's support, officially or unofficially, will be centered behind a bill introduced 10 days ago by Rep. Wood (D-Ga.), a member of the house labor committee. It has considerable backing among Southern Democrats.

The Wood bill would repeal the Taft-Hartley law, but at the same time would re-enact most of it.

The present fight goes back to last July in Philadelphia when the Democratic National convention adopted a platform advocating repeal of the Republican-sponsored T-H law.

The administration sent its labor bill to Capitol Hill late in January this year, with congress back under Democratic control, and the senate and house labor committees held lengthy public hearings on the measure.

Both approved the bill, but the new Wood bill was introduced the day the house left town for its Easter recess, which has now ended. Wood did not introduce it personally, but a statement issued by his office said it was intended to meet objections of labor unions to his original bill.

In New York yesterday, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said he would not support the bill "until it is made more effective."

George Meany, AFL secretary, described the Wood bill as "a transparent disguise for Taft-Hartleyism at its worst." He called it "vicious and malicious x x x against organized labor." The CIO has denounced it similarly.

Hildegard Has Come a Long Way From Playing the Piano in a Silent Movie House

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP) — At 16, Hildegard Loretta Sell played the piano in a silent movie house in Milwaukee.

She was a plump, earnest, religious German girl, who hoped for something better.

Today, 27 years later, Hildegard is a svelte internationally known supper club entertainer who has perhaps kissed more bald pates in public than any lady in history.

She has dropped the Loretta Sell from her name. But success hasn't made her lose the best qualities of Loretta Sell. She is still earnest, religious — and hoping for something better.

She retains a girlhood characteristic that most artists have who stay at the top in their field, and inexorable desire for self-progress.

"I still take piano lessons, because the piano is my life," she said.

She has always wanted to play wonderfully well. Right now I'm doing the classics. I'm learning a concerto. I hope to be able to do it by 1951 with the San Francisco symphony orchestra. They've invited me.

Devoting her spare time for two and a half years to learn a 42-page concerto perfectly doesn't seem like too much struggle to her. Hildegard has made her a perfectionist.

She told me something of her life and hard times as we sat in the living room of her luxurious seven-room suite at the Plaza hotel. It is the kind of suite she used to live in when she was a teen-ager in the days when she thumped out background music.

Hildegard became one of the highest-paid supper club and radio entertainers after a dreary and low-paid apprenticeship. She worked in Vaudeville, song-plugging, and a girl band. She toured in London and Paris night spots.

The woman who helped work out her successful formula of will, talent, and mental agility — and special lighting effects — is Anna

Packard Plant Strike Averted With Settlement

Detroit, April 25 — (AP) — Eleventh-hour peace talks that continued even after picket lines were set up prevented a shutdown of the big Packard Motor Car Co. plant early today.

Workers of the company who had been alerted for a strike starting at midnight Sunday were told by CIO United Auto Workers officers to report on their regular shifts.

Settlement of assorted differences between the company and union was achieved by a group of representatives of both sides who got together at 11 p. m. — an hour after pickets had been called for the Packard plant.

When the broke up three hours later there was written agreement on 16 disputed points. The UAW then withdrew about 70 men and women pickets who had jumped the gun on the midnight strike.

The only Packard workers affected by the brief picketing were 200 members of a skeleton night crew who reported for work at midnight but did not enter the plant.

Ralph Urban, president of Packard Local 190 of the auto workers union, said management agreed to reinstate five of six discharged employees.

Allow the sixth to resign instead of firing him. The worker was charged with falsifying his employment application.

Permit members of the union bargaining committee to enter the plant with special badges.

Investigate certain alleged health hazards within 60 days.

A strike action was voted at a meeting of the Packard local yesterday afternoon. Local officers decided to go ahead with the walk-out immediately, without waiting for the customary approval of the UAW-CIO executive board.

A local official explained that such a move would not be granted before Thursday, when the board meets, and quick strike or settlement was deemed desirable by the union because of Packard's "golden jubilee" celebration set for May 1 to 3.

The officer said the company wanted a group of special gold-colored cars — not yet completed — for that occasion. The local therefore decided to set the strike time before the cars could be finished, the officer added in order to strengthen its bargaining position.

It was the gold-colored paint for the cars that constituted one of the union's grievances and led to a "quickie" strike last week. The UAW claimed the paint had harmful effects on some workers.

If the strike had occurred, it would have been the first company-wide walkout by the UAW in nearly a year. The industry's last major disturbance was the Chrysler Corp. strike last May, called by the UAW to enforce wage demands.

Wages were not at issue in the Packard dispute.

Although there have been no major walkouts in recent months, the auto industry has been plagued with a series of small strikes, many of a "wildcat" nature.

A more serious strike currently threatens the Ford Motor Co. UAW members in the Ford Rouge and Lincoln plants have voted for strike action, and the matter probably will go before the union's executive board this week. The dispute concerns production rates.

Yesterday, at a meeting of Ford Rouge Local 600, a move for an immediate walkout and to be put down by union officials.

Early Stock Market Gains Fade Swiftly

New York, April 25 — (AP) — Slight early gains in the stock market today faded away into small losses.

The movement of the market was highly restricted with a few exceptions. A considerable number of leaders remained unchanged for long periods.

Richfield Oil, which made strong gains last week, fell more than 10 points at one time. Other stocks were mostly lower, although Richfield was alone as an active issue.

Aviator Dies When Plane Motor Falls Out

Jackson, Miss., April 25 — (UP) — A 23-year-old stunt flier from Decatur, Ga., fell to his death yesterday when the motor of his plane fell out while he was doing an aerobatics at 50 feet.

The flier, performing with the Trans-American air shows, was identified as Billy Fisher. He had just completed an outside loop when a motor support cracked, the propeller sheared through a wing and the plane crashed and burned.

Highway Bond Issue Reaches High Court

Little Rock, April 25 — (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today began its study of Governor McMath's new highway bonds.

The test suit, brought in the name of F. P. Pickett, of Little Rock, was taken under submission this morning, but the court announced handed down for two or three weeks.

Under an act of the 1949 legislature, approved a special P. 15 election, the state fiscal court board is authorized to issue up to $7,000,000 of additional highway bonds annually for the next four years.

The test suit is based on the fiscal board's proposal to sell the first $7,000,000 of bonds on June 9. The test suit principally questions effect of the new bonds on the 1941 highway refunding bonds and validity of the special election at which the proposed bond issues were approved.

In its opinions today, the court affirmed lower court decrees in three drainage cases, two of them originating in the Phillips Chancery court.

The court upheld the Phillips Chancery court's dismissal of the attack of L. C. Campbell and others on a new levy against lands in the beaver bayou drainage district.

The district, organized in 1907, retired its bonds in 1947 and the new levy was proposed for maintenance. The supreme court said that under a 1927 act, districts would continue to enjoy and exercise all the powers that such districts had under its original law, as well as those conferred by the 1927 act.

George B. Blackburn and other commissioners of the White river drainage district in Phillips and Desha counties were upheld in their conduct of affairs of the district, in a suit brought by R. B. Harris and other landowners. The Phillips chancery court dismissed the charges, charging assessments by the district were invalid when plans were changed, that reassessments were necessary and that refunds should be made, and the supreme court affirmed that holding.

Reversed was a $10,000 judgment of the Saline circuit court against the Benton flying service for injury to Roy V. Thomason in plane crash.

Hot Springs Man Testifies About Reds

New York, April 25 — (AP) — A lecturer was quoted in federal court today as having told a Communist class in Chicago in 1946 that "for the workers to take over here, we'll have to have a revolution."

Garfield Harrison, a Hot Springs, Ark., underwriter, was called to the stand today to testify in the case of the lecturer, who was Albert Wagenknecht, identified in a court exhibit as a member of the Communist party review commission.

Herron resumed the witness stand today at the conspiracy trial of 11 top U. S. Communists before Federal Judge Harold R. Medina and a jury.

The witness said Wagenknecht was one of his instructors at a class in Chicago in 1946.

"He referred to Bulgaria and countries in eastern Europe," Herron said. "He said they had practically had their revolutions in World War II but that the workers to take over here, we'll have to have a revolution."

Herron said 15 persons attended the six-day course on the second floor of a building on Chicago's West Madison St., just west of Ashland avenue.

Other lecturers, the witness testified, were David Engelstein, educational director of the Communist party in Illinois, and Gilbert Green, district party chairman in Chicago and one of the 11 defendants.

Edward C. Wallace, special assistant to the attorney general, told the court that the review commission, to which Wagenknecht purportedly belonged, was "responsible for the personnel" of the Communist party.

As this week's trial sessions began, Wallace read sections of a book entitled "The History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union." Its author was not identified.

Herron, identified the book as one used at Communist educational meetings he attended.

Herron, appearing on the witness stand today for the second day, said he joined the Communist party in 1944 and kept the FBI informed of what he learned. He said he left the party in 1947 and returned to Arkansas from Chicago.

Shanghai Is Bypassed, Reds Trap 300,000

Shanghai, April 25 — (AP) — The armies timed a lightning blow toward the sea at Hangchow today hoping to trap 300,000 Nationalist troops below Shanghai.

Other Communist forces, which took Nanking yesterday without effort, were reported just 10 miles from Shanghai. Residents of the world's fourth largest city waited in a steady rain for the Reds. But none had showed up at dusk.

The feeling grew among Shanghai's 5,000,000 inhabitants that the great Asiatic commercial center would go over to the Communists without a fight, just as Nanking did Sunday morning.

Seymour Topping, Associated Press correspondent in Nanking, reported the former Nationalist capital received the Communists quietly at 3:20 a. m. Sunday. Nanking time. One of the Communist soldiers' first tasks was to put out the city's electric lights. The judicial Yuan building, the building was a total loss.

The Communists took their stations before some foreign embassies and all government buildings and utilities in Nanking. No guards were placed before the American embassy, however.

During the afternoon three government planes tried to destroy gasoline and ammunition dumps at the Nanking airport. Communist spokesmen said they overshot their targets.

They injured some Nanking children at play.

A welcome to the Communists by Nanking residents was planned for later.

At the time Nanking fell, the Communist radio at Peiping announced the capture of Taiyuan, Shansi province capital and industrial center 400 miles northwest of Nanking. Taiyuan had been under siege for months. The radio said all of the city's 150,000 defenders were wiped out. Pilots who flew over Taiyuan later reported it in flames.

No one knows what to expect in Shanghai.

ROGER THE LODGER

Therefore it was with consternation that I learned Major was being transferred immediately to Memphis. "Don't be a ninny," Rob said. "You don't have to let Roger live here. It's our house."

"Ah, Der Tag," I thought. Looks like this time, we're going to throw in together.

The Captains got a good early start on their journey, and so did Roger. A jeep stopped at our door. Out jumped two officers.

"It's Roger," I stage-whispered to Rob. "And a friend."

"So what?"

There it was again; Rob had changed his mind and without so much as a hand signal, we were forever piling up on issues because of that obnoxious habit of his. Just when I thought we were in cahoots, I would be left holding ter cabbage is nearly ready for harvest, use rotenone as the insecticide.

There is no danger from eating sprayed or dusted cabbage if the outer leaves are trimmed off, she explains. Cabbage heads grow from the inside and the spray is all on the outside leaves.

the sack. I thought of the time I simply had to accept an invitation to the house of acquaintances Rob found unbearably boring. He warned me to get him out of there by 10 o'clock at the very latest. Either that, or he wouldn't go. At 9:45, I began to lay the ground work for our leave-taking. I had things under control and went up to get my coat. As I came down the stairs, Rob looked up in surprise. Instead of eagerly springing to his feet as I fully expected him to do, he held his seat and demanded to know where I was going. When I gave the old line about the headache, he called on the world to note whether there ever had been such a sportsman before. Grumbling and complaining, he did go home with me.

When I unburied him for leaving me out on a limb, he admitted he had forgotten asking me to get him out of there, and even said he had been having an unexpected pleasant time.

No, I wasn't entirely unprepared for Rob's change of heart toward Roger. But I'd had a change of heart; I was on the other end of the see-saw. I had grown tired of him. The novelty of watching him enjoy our possessions had worn off. He was more trouble than he was worth; his entertainment value had dropped below par. I didn't want him to move back in.

Roger sailed into the house without stopping to ring the bell. He presented Colonel Hartwicke and said they had been up working most of the night, were in need of a shave and shower, and that he could think of no more pleasant place in which to have them than in our house.

"The Captains just left," I temporized as though Roger didn't already know that. "I don't know in what condition they left things."

"After B.O. Q.," Colonel Hartwicke laughed. "I'm sure they will seem gloriously pure." It would have been interesting to me to hear the line Roger fed strangers before he brought them to our house — men who always accepted our hospitality as a matter of course.

Colonel Hartwicke seemed a gentleman; he wouldn't have imposed; he must have been sold on the idea that he was conferring some sort of favor on us. Both he and Roger were so ceremonious and polite, I couldn't very well fail to play up to them; so I ran upstairs to see to fresh towels, soap, and a hasty setting to rights of the Captains' rooms.

Passing the front windows, I caught sight of Roger and Colonel Hartwicke carrying valises, foot lockers and musette bags up the walk toward the open front door. "Roger!" I called sharply. You can't move in here. To support my vagary, I added, "We aren't going to rent rooms any longer."

That sounded like safe ground. Rob had once suggested it. He slowed down long enough to look embarrassed for me. "How

Judith Coplon Asks Court to Drop Charges

Washington, April 25 — (AP) — Judith Coplon asked the U. S. District court today to throw out one of the two indictments against her which grew out of an alleged rendezvous with a Russian agent.

Her attorney, Archibald Palmer of New York, argued that an indictment voted by a Washington grand jury against the 27-year-old former justice department employee, should be dismissed because nine of the 17 grand jurors present were government employees.

Government attorneys replied that the question of eligibility of government employees to serve on juries here has been settled by a long line of court decisions.

The motion and argument came when Miss Coplon was called to trial.

The indictment here charges her with copying and removing secret documents from justice department files "with intent and reason to believe the information was to be used to the injury of the United States and to the advantage of a foreign nation."

In addition to the indictment here, Miss Coplon is under indictment in New York along with Valentin G. Gubitchev, 32, a Russian and former intelligence officer, on espionage charges.

Miss Coplon, a tiny brunette, listened attentively during the arguments before Judge Albert L. Reeves, sitting Judge from the western district of Missouri. She was wearing a black faille suit and a white blouse. Frequently, she took notes and held whispered conversations with her attorney.

Palmer told Judge Reeves that the indictment here contains virtually the same language as the one in New York, except that the New York indictment alleges she and Gubitchev conspired to violate the espionage laws. Palmer said the indictment here was voted after she had entered a plea of innocent to the New York indictment.

can we shave and bathe without government?" he asked in his tone of sweet reasonableness.

"Oh, I backed up. That. But my brain wasn't fooled; it knew I was on thin ice. In fact, it spurred me to run down the stairs and meet the gentlemen."

With an air of indulging a trying child, Roger set down his load and motioned Colonel Hartwicke to do the same. They removed shaving things and clean duds — all for Roger. I noted, glancing at Hartwicke was evidently not going to change, but simply shave and maybe shower. I stood like a watchdog until the bags were closed again, and then I retired to the garden room to sputter to Rob while Roger took Colonel Hartwicke upstairs.

"He's not a bad guy," Rob said. "Frankly, since it's your idea — not mine, mind you — to let people roast here, I don't see any reason for you to asinine me against Roger. Throw out the whole kit and kaboodle if you want to. That'd be oke with me. But if you're going to let any of them stay, you might as well let Roger."

"You're crazy," I spluttered. "I'm fed up with being his flunky. It isn't enough he eats all his meals here as though they were his due, but before he left last time he was grousing at having to do the garbage. And there hasn't been a drop of hot water since he moved in. He lies in his tub and lets the water run in and out until it comes ice cold from the hot side. Takes the tank an hour to warm up again."

"Cut that out," Rob barked. "And he's got completely over drying the dishes. Always important documents to study, or tired from a tough day, or if I'd just to be easy and let them ride until he felt like helping, he'd be glad to. And all those dinner parties he stuck me with, I'm through. He can't live here," I said emphatically, thumping the table.

a liberal, but not an extreme leftist.)

Johnston said he had taken the editorship of the embassy newspaper Britanski Soyuznik in the belief he could improve British-Russian relations. But it "became clear the British embassy in Moscow was not interested in the improvement of Anglo Soviet relations and actually does everything possible to worsen them," the Johnston letter said.

In this connection, he said, Peterson ordered him to print anti-Soviet speeches by British Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and other British officials.

"Every honest man must admit he can not remain indifferent. . . . The Johnston letter said. "I can no longer remain an instrument in the hands of Attlee, Bevin (Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison) and other leaders of the Labor party who are aiding American monopolists, whom a war will bring enormous dividends."

Johnston described the Soviet as the "leading force in the peace struggle and a force which combines all that's best in the world."

Memphis, April 25 (AP) — E. H. Crump took command of the traffic situation at the Mississippi river bridge here yesterday, revising the order issued by the police commissioner and directing traffic personally.

The white-haired political figure went to the bridge at 9 a. m., saw a jam of cars and suddenly reversed his previously announced stand on the situation.

He told a bridge policeman to keep the cars moving, and then he began motioning the cars along with his cane. Only trucks were kept 150 feet apart.

Saturday Police Commissioner Le Boole issued an order that a rule spacing vehicles 150 feet apart must be more strictly enforced. His order came after Crump said he favored keeping signs on the bridge stating the rule. The signs had been under criticism.

Yesterday afternoon Crump again appeared at the bridge and waved cars across. He is chairman of the Memphis and Arkansas Bridge commission, a body responsible for building a new bridge across the river.

Crump's action followed a big hubbub about the bridge that has been going on for several days.

For the last few years signs on both sides of the old span have specified that cars and trucks should keep 150 feet apart. This has caused many traffic jams on the one-way bridge.

Then someone noticed recently that the signs on the Arkansas side of the span had been removed in favor of one setting a minimum speed limit of 20 miles per hour.

The Tennessee highway department kept its signs, and Crump urged the Arkansas Highway department to reinstate the signs on the other side. In a public statement, he said the bridge could be dangerous.

Detroit Strong Contender for Olympics

Rome, April 25 (AP) — Delegates from 30 nations began talks today on the site for the 1956 Olympic games.

Detroit, backed by the United States Olympic association was regarded as the strongest contender. Other strong bidders were Melbourne, Australia, Mexico City and Buenos Aires.

Working sessions of the week-long meeting were scheduled to begin today, following a press conference.

Avery Brundage, vice-president of the International Olympic committee, said yesterday after the opening ceremonies that it was likely that Japan would be readmitted into Olympic competition, but that the question of German participation probably would have to wait for the formation of a German government.

THE SCOUTING TRAIL

Mr. Montgomery says that a very active program is being planned in the den. Den 2 is preparing an excellent demonstration for the Scout exposition to be held at Hope Fair park on May 2nd.

Den 2 will meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the den mother, 1129 East third street.

ment "in an effort to break her down so she would tell them what they thought she knew."

There was no necessity outside of terrorism to indict her all over again," Palmer said.

He called the two indictments "double jeopardy," and "a mockery of justice."

As part of the alleged spying conspiracy, the New York indictment charges Miss Coplon with attempting to deliver government secrets to Gubitchev. The two of them were arrested together in New York last winter.

The justice department assigned two of its top prosecutors to the job. They are John H. Kelly, Jr., and Raymond P. Whately. Kelly recently served as chief prosecutor in the treason trial of Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars. Whately is an assistant chief of the department's criminal division.

Defense Attorney Palmer has indicated that a yen to write fiction may be offered in Miss Coplon's defense.

Palmer has told reporters Miss Coplon, who denies guilt of any espionage activity, was engaged in assembling material for a romantic novel with political overtones when she and Gubitchev were arrested by FBI agents in New York March 4.

Key Witness Questioned in Secrecy

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—The house un-American activities committee bundled a key witness in secrecy today in its search for Communist agents. It contradicted on the American Slave Congress and CIO-United Electrical Workers Union (UE).

The committee took this turn after releasing, over the week-end, copies of documents and sworn testimony that the Policy embassy was used for Communist spying.

A committee official said it was necessary to withhold any advance identification of one of three "friendly" witnesses in order to protect the witness's safety. He said to have turned on the Communist party after having once been a card-carrying member.

These are the first hearings the committee has staged since the first congress opened for business under Democratic control in January. They were expected to be opened to the public later on—maybe today, maybe tomorrow.

The first phase is expected to put the emphasis on the Slav congress and allied organizations. But there will be a build-up for shifting the inquiry later to the UE.

The committee called in Judge Blair E. Gunther of the common pleas court of Pittsburgh to give it a hand in investigating the Slav congress. Gunther was one of its early leaders but dropped out in 1944 after word began getting around that Reds had infiltrated the organization.

John Sherman, a lawyer for several UE local unions in Pittsburgh, was listed as the third friendly witness. Committee publications say the Slav congress has been cited by Attorney General Clark "subversive and Communist and that 'Communists are still in the saddle' in the UE.

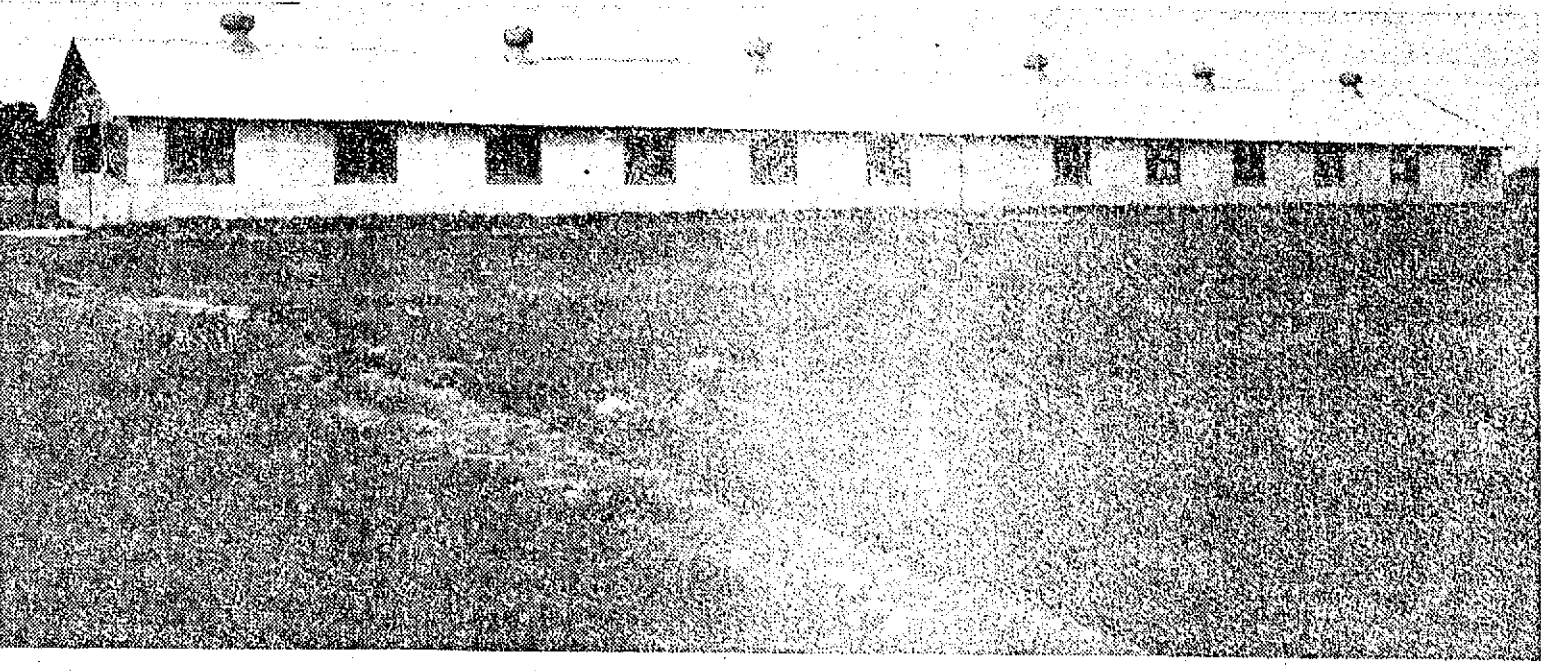

One report on communism and labor says that in the event of war, many important plants are at the mercy of the union.

The Slav congress started out in 1941 by combining several other organizations of Serbs, Croats, Slovaks and other Slav groups with a membership of several hundred thousand people. Former Attorney General Biddle took part in the first convention in Detroit in 1942 and the late President Roosevelt sent a message of greeting.

A committee report published over the week-end says the president of the Slav congress is Leo Krzycki of Milwaukee and that a Polish general sent over to this country with written orders to spy was told to contact Leo Krzycki and other persons. The report said Leo is Polish for Leo.

The main purpose of the report was to present copies of documents and testimony about spying from the Policy embassy.

Hempstead Man Is Making Poultry a Paying Business

Sixty dollars a week! Four crops a year! And from land that won't raise even weeds! Sounds like a dream, doesn't it? Well, it's a dream come true for two Hempstead County farm families, and others will follow in their footsteps.

Five hundred, eighteen dollars and two cents profit for nine and one-half weeks' work is good pay, as Lester Huckabee discovered recently. What kind of farming is this, with four crops a year and $60 per acre profit? Poultry, scientific poultry production is the answer.

Mr. Huckabee, whose poultry house is located at Spring Hill, a few miles south of Hope, is convinced of his future in the broiler industry, and of the benefits which the industry can produce for the farmers and business people of this area.

"Seven dollars and eighty-eight cents per day earned is a pretty good profit for the part time work my broiler business requires," Mr. Huckabee says, "As fast as I can, I want to build more broiler houses and increase my production and earnings."

The broiler house, according to Mr. Huckabee, one of the major factors in profitable poultry production, costs $225, completely equipped, and will be paid for in less than a year from his profits.

One hundred and twenty-six feet long by twenty feet wide, the house has a concrete foundation, each floor, wood framing, and is covered with corrugated aluminum, and is equipped with gas, electricity, water, divided into six sections by movable fences, each section is equipped with automatic drinking trays and gas heated brooders of the latest design, and holds 400 chicks. Windows are arranged so as to provide draft-free ventilation, an important factor in disease control. The central section of the house is furnished with washing and disinfecting vats, and 300 square feet of floor.

The factors of cost and profit which Mr. Huckabee compiled are: 1. The house cost $225. 2. The chicks cost $1.50 each. 3. The feed cost $1.50 per pound. 4. The labor cost $1.50 per day. 5. The profit is $60 per week.

The local Legion-Merchants team of Hope took it on the chin 12 to 2 yesterday at Gurdin in the first exhibition game of the season.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Who's A Foreigner?

While I'm waiting for a haircut the other day, Slim Hartman lets slip with a crack about those "foreigners" who live by the depot.

"Now wait a minute, Slim," snaps Doc Sherman. "Don't forget we're all 'foreigners' more or less. Some of our families have simply been here longer than others. But even if they came over on the Mayflower, they were foreigners to the Indians."

Slim gets a little red and you could see that Doc had him. "And the reason they came here," he goes on, "was to find freedom to do and think as they wanted to so long as they didn't tramp on the rights of the other fellow."

From where I sit, America became the great land it is today through our being tolerant of different people and different tastes—whether it's a taste for square dancing or waltzing, radio or movies, goat's milk or a temperate glass of sparkling beer.

Here and There in Arkansas

Clarksville, April 25 — (AP)—Sightings of two large strip coal mines going into operation in Johnson county are being discussed here.

Two out-of-state firms have been conducting tests of land northwest of here in the Harmony-Lone Pine area.

The Utah Construction company completed its test in the Philpott field several weeks ago and has leased several hundreds of acres of land for possible mining operations.

The Pittsburgh and Midway Coal mining company of Pittsburgh, Kas., began drilling into soft coal deposits last week.

Several small strip mines have been operated in the area in the past.

The duck hawk is reported to be the fastest flying bird in the United States.

Porker Coach Proud of Baseball Team

Fayetteville, April 25. — (AP) —
Prides of the University of Arkansas' spring sports program are the Razorback baseball and golf teams. Coach Deke Brackett's baseballers, rated as one of the finest Porker diamond outfits in history, were to try to improve their record of three wins and one defeat in a doubleheader with Southern Methodist university at Dallas today. The twin-bill was scheduled for Saturday but was postponed because of rain.

And on Friday and Saturday the Razorbacks will go to St. Louis to seek their third and fourth conquests of Washington university.
Bradley University dealt Arkansas its first baseball setback of the season, 13-9, last Monday, but the Razorbacks rebounded Tuesday to lick Tulsa, 12-5.

The golfers registered their second Southwest conference victory against one defeat by blanking
Rice, 6-0, in a match at Houston
Friday. They sought their third league win at Texas A. and M. today. Saturday they will engage
SMU at Fayetteville.
